Did you really pass a law that makes it illegal to kill rats? I am so glad we don't have anyone that stupid in my state...mind you we do have gov. Brown who has the intellect of a rat. It is laws like these that will end up destroying your city and causing people to die from the diseases carried by the animals the law thinks it is protecting. The truth is when their numbers explode they all suffer from lack of food and the very diseases that kill people. May all those that voted for this be infested with the flees that will now need to be rounded up in family groups and relocated.

Capture vermin in "families"? Are you a rat, you stupid c[REDACTED]? Should your "family" be captured and relocated? What a colossal, vacant moron you are.

Are you for real?

Dear Councilwoman Cheh:

Your wonderful law protecting rats is a shining example of what a dumbass you are. You crazy lunatic. You've got [REDACTED] for a brain and it reflects the depth of gross stupidity your constituents have by electing you.

You're a disgrace to your gender and your position. To think that taxpayer dollars are used for panty-waste like you is disgusting.

You are a loser,

Mary,

Can I ask do you have any kind of a brain? YOU DON'T RELOCATE RATS YOU KILL THEM! I have lived in Washington, DC for a decade now and if there is one thing everyone can agree is that rats need to be killed. What do you want them living in your home? I bet you don't. Have you ever been downtown next to a construction site? People get revolted by that.

You really need a life other than imposing your silly busy body ideas like that on the good people of the Nation's Capital.

The biggest rat lives in the white house. I would be happy for my company to relocate the entire family of rats back to Kenya or Chicago.

Mr. Lopez,

I understand from CNS news ("VA AG Fears DC Law May Relocate Rat 'Families' to Virginia" Christopher Goins 13 Jan 2011 CNS news.com) that Ms. Cheh was the driving force behind a law in the district that took effect March 2010 that forces pest control workers to remove vermin infestations by removing those vermin alive and then relocating them and their "family unit" (I read the law).

Where are the vermin to be relocated –in neighboring cities filled with normal anti-vermin people?

Vermin, such as rats, carry virulent diseases including plague and rabies. Human beings, namely pest control workers, are at tremendous risk from those diseases if they have to handle them alive to remove them. What about those humans that are living with vermin infestations? Can a family of humans, for example, who are bitten and infected by vermin because pest control workers were unable to effectively help, able to sue Ms. Cheh and the district?

I would like to suggest that Ms. Cheh join the Occupy people in their camp full of squirrels and rats. She should personally demonstrate removal techniques for live vermin so they may be "...captured, handled, and, when permissible, transported, in a manner to ensure against causing unnecessary discomfort, behavioral stress, or physical harm to the animal, including providing protections against weather extremes". Exterminators (sorry to use that prejudicial anti-vermin term), hopefully, can better understand how to do their jobs by her demonstration.

I'd like to learn more about how people like Ms. Cheh become left-wing environmental nut cases that somehow manage to infect other communities around them (where the normal people live) with the consequences of their mental illness.

Are vermin allowed to vote in Washington D.C. and if so, how many vermin voted for this woman? And if vermin are not yet allowed to vote in Ward 3 what inspired Ms. Cheh to choose vermin over the welfare of human beings?

I would like to invite Ms. Cheh to a forum on common sense held everyday in the real world.

Thanking you in advance Mr. Lopez for any insight you may offer.
